PITY, THE REVEALER.

I waited long for love. My spirit drooped Beneath the withering darts of men's disparage. As faints the unshaded flower on sun parched plain 'Neath tropic rays.

I waited long for faith. My doubting soul Was like a helmless bark when tempests rear, And stars are hid, and only breakers' foam Reveals the shore

I waited long for peace. My troubled heart Was like a fort besieged yet faction torn. Each passion promised safety, but betrayed To keen self scorn.

Then pity came with gaze of liquid light, And cleared my eyes to sight of others' pain. 'Neath burdens great my brethren groined, their brows Dropped blood like rain

I snatched perforce the weakest struggler's load (His grateful smile made light its seeming weight) I sang the others songs. They stepped in time, Erect, elate

And as we marched, my petty, long nursed grief Was made as by a magic spell to cease, For love divine shone through their eyes, and love Brought faith and peace

—Good Words

HOW MIKE GOT EVEN.

It was a beautiful morning. Not a cloud in the June sky, not a leaf stirring on the old cottonwood tree by the spring. The cattle, after a restless night, were lying in close order and lazily chewing the cud or stretched out broadside on the thick green carpet.

On the edge of the bunch a few calves were frisking about with tails up, and one impatient youngster was butting away at his drowsing mother with a vigorous suggestion that it was time to rise and furnish forth the morning meal.

On an adjacent hill the horse wrangler, still draped to the heels in the yellow slicker he had donned in the thunder shower of the night, sat idly in the saddle with a hand on his horse's hip, looking away over the pea green range of early summer to where the mountain tops gloved in the rising sun.

The cook's fire of damp wood, kindled directly under the tree, sent up a thick smoke which spread throughout the branches, but collected above them, extending one straight, slender, lofty column into the blue. Some blackbirds were scolding about being smoked out of their leafy home, and on every side resounded the mellow notes of the meadow lark.

It was a beautiful morning, but no one in camp was happy, for every man's clothes were wet, and Mike Tussler had the toothache. Now, it is well known that when the big back tooth of a big man is ached, it is a wholly different proposition from an ordinary case of mal de dents.

"You don't know anything about it," Mike declared. "This isn't just toothache. It aches all over. Did you ever see one of them fiery comets with a long, forked tail on to a bright head? Well, this pain is just like that. My tooth's the redhot head of the thing, and the tails are going all through me."

Mike lay down on his back, and the cook looked in his mouth.

"Did you ever see a chestnut or acorn with a wormhole in it? That's the way with your tooth. Just a little bit of a hole right into it. It's a terrible small hole to worry about."

"Nothing small about the feel of it," said Tussler, and he asked for a day off to go and get it "yanked."

He could not be spared that day, but the next morning went away to the nearest town. It was always a day's ride, and, as is the perverse way of aching tooth, his began to feel much better when he came in sight of the village. He felt so much relieved by the time he had ridden down the one street, with its square front, one story wooden buildings, that when he was finally seated in the dentist's chair he didn't want to have the tooth pulled.

"I was just coming along the street," he said to the dentist, "and I saw your brand on the door. So I come in to ask you to look in my mouth and tell me how old I be."

"Old enough to take better care of your teeth," he announced, after looking them over.

"Have I got to have the lasso on that back one?" asked Tussler.

"You have got to have it filled at once."

"What'll it cost?" asked the cautious Irishman.

"Three dollars," said the dentist. "I use only the best materials and have but one price."

"Well," said Mike, "it don't hurt any now. I guess I won't let the job today."

"That's robbery," he assured him self, as he went away to copper the ace for five and lose it. "The cook said it was an awful small hole."

The next morning, however, his tooth having meanwhile resumed business, he was waiting at the door when the dentist came down.

"You don't get up so early as we do on the range by about four hours," said he. "I been standing here all night. I want me tooth filled full."

So Mike had the work done and paid 50 cents extra for capping the nerve. "And the whole thing didn't take him an hour," he reported when he returned to camp. "I've been robbed."

Mike clings to an opinion with proper tenacity and the conviction that the dentist had "beat him out of good $2" laid a debt and a duty upon him which he had no idea of shirking.

"What you going to do about it?" the Irishman asked.

"Wait," says Mike.

The hard routine work of the spring round up went on for some weeks. Again the boys asked, "What are you going to do about your dentist?"

"Wait," says Mike again.

When there is work to be done, a cow camp is stirring at daybreak. Getting out in the gray dawn one morning, it was seen that a regular tenderfoot outfit

The Curtain Was Down.

A party of countrymen were in town enjoying the sights. At last they came by one of the theaters in the Strand. "Suppose we go in," said one. "Better see how much it is first," said another.

After inquiring the price of admission they decided to send one of the party inside to see whether it was good enough or not. After remaining for some time the delegate returned. "How is it?" asked one. "No good. A lot of fellers fiddlin in front of a big picture." Come on."—Strand Magazine.

Proposed Hotel For Women.

It is proposed to erect an expensive and commodious edifice in New York city for the purpose of furnishing hotel accommodations for self supporting women exclusively. The projectors of the scheme wish to put up a structure which will afford rooms, conveniences and comforts for about 1,000 persons at moderate prices. It is believed that such an institution will not only prove of great practical utility in affording a home for women who earn their own living, but that it will return a fair profit on the money invested.

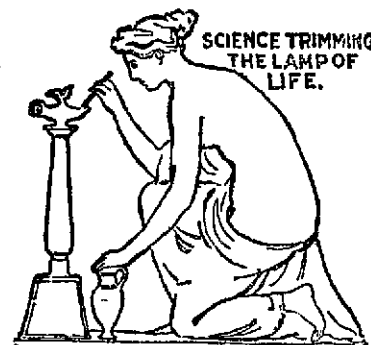

The plan has often been tried before, comments the Philadelphia Bulletin, occasionally with a degree of success and

The Trans-Mississippi and International Congress is composed of delegates from every State and Territory West of the Mississippi river. The idea of this exposition originated in that Congress at its session at Omaha in 1895, and the project has become a National enterprise and the National Commission has been organized and is in active service, there being one commissioner for each of the several departments of the Government. Most of the Trans-Mississippi States are well along in the way of gathering exhibits from their respective States and many of them have made liberal appropriations, while others are preparing exhibits through private enterprise.

Vice-President H. B. Maxson of Reno, has made arrangements whereby he can get Nevada exhibits, shipped from any point in the State along the line of the C. O. P. R. R., to Omaha and return, and he requests all persons who wish the interests of the State advanced, to co-operate with the Exposition County Commissioner of his county, whose name is shown above, and prepare

R. R. from which place it will be sent to Omaha and exhibited, and returned to the same point at the close of the exposition, free of expense to the exhibitor. Full information should accompany everything sent for exhibition. Before sending anything to the line of the railroad a full description should be given to the Exposition Commissioner of the county, who in turn will notify the Vice-President, who will notify him what action to take, otherwise there might be many duplications. Apply to your County Representative for further information, and don't let this opportunity of advertising the resources of Nevada be lost.

Resolved, "That the people of the Island of Cuba are and of right ought to be free and independent."

NO MORE VOLUNTEERS.

It is positively announced at Washington that the President does not contemplate a call for additional volunteers at present. The 125,000 already called for will, with the regular army, it is believed, be sufficient to drive the Spaniards from Cuba. It is not probable, therefore, that Nevada will be called upon to furnish more than one troop of cavalry unless the war is prolonged beyond the time set by the military authorities for conquering the Spaniards.

The mounted rifles to which the Nevada contingent will be attached, will be made up in Idaho, Wyoming, Utah, New Mexico and Arizona. They are for special mounted service, but whether that service will be in Cuba, or in keeping the Indians quiet at the great reservations is not known outside the War Department. The western States and Territories should furnish the best cavalry material in the world, and those who are anxious to join the army should not hesitate expecting that four or five hundred more men from Nevada will be called into the service of the United States.

THE LIVE WIPED OUT.

The appointment of General Joe Wheeler of Alabama to be a Major General of the United States forces was a wise stroke of policy on the part of our President. It completes what the appointment of Fitzhugh Lee began. It is the last, supreme token of the unification and solidification of the States. What strange events do the processes of time unfold! Here is a man who, as a Major of the Union Army, faced in the death struggle of a third of a century ago, two Confederate officers—two officers whom he now appoints to positions of the highest rank in the army of the Union. It is a spectacle of the deepest significance. It is a deed at which the heart of every true American should rejoice. It announces to the entire universe that the nation is as one again—no North, no South. The dividing line is wiped out, and the Stars and Stripes are once more and forever enshrined in the hearts of a united people. If the war with Spain were to accomplish nothing more than this, it would still have done enough to be hailed as a blessing in disguise. Let the nations of Europe now understand once and for all time that he who invites trouble with us thereby incurs the hostility of the most powerful nation on God's footstool—Virginia Report.

Incomparable with a request, Secretary Gage states that the aggregate receipts and expenditures of the Government from the time the Dingley tariff bill went into effect to and including the 31st ultimo, exclusive of payments on account of Pacific railroad indebtedness, was as follows: Receipts, $205,123,445; expenditures, $348,782,349.

War Points from Every Place.

The Spanish diplomat who thinks war with the United States will last six years appears to have war and diplomacy well mixed.—New York Journal.

Spain will never submit to American intervention in Cuba. That is one she won't. But perhaps she can be jolted into changing her mind.—New York Mail and Express.

If there is any way to prevent United States steamship lines from carrying gold and provisions to the Spaniards in Cuba, it should be found at once. Such a procedure has too much of the tone of treason in it to be endurable.—San Francisco Examiner.

"The only way for the United States to preserve the peace is to declare for war," remark Archbishop Ireland, paradoxically but forcibly, which goes to show that the distinguished prelate, though a man of peace, is an eminently practical sort of a patriot to have around just about now.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Secretary Long is reported to have decided that only three newspaper reporters can be permitted to accompany each of the ships of the flying squadron. This is a comparatively small squad, but they can probably be depended on to record history as it is made.—Boston Herald.

It may not be remiss to remind merchants who have received solicitous peace communication from the East that there is something higher and nobler in life than the pursuit of wealth. Patriotism and love of country should come before all else. If the peace party can reconcile insult, treachery and dishonor with the qualities mentioned all well and good.—Evansville Courier.

A war loan of $400,000,000 was arranged in New York yesterday. Bonds have already been taken.

CLIMATE AND CROP SERVICE.

The State Weather Bureau Reports for the Month of March.

Following is the report of the Weather Bureau, in co-operation with the Nevada State Weather Service, for the month of March, 1898:

TEMPERATURE.

The mild temperature, which prevailed during February, continued through the first decade of March. During the remainder of the month the temperature was almost continuously below the normal, thus the month, as a whole, was considerably colder than the average March. The coldest period was the 15th to the 22d, during which the temperature fell to zero or below in Elko, White Pine and the north portion of Nye counties. During the past nineteen years there have been only three colder Marches, viz., 1880, 1882 and 1897.

The monthly average for the State was 35.9 degrees, which is about 4 degrees below the normal. The highest mean was 48.8, at St. Thomas, and lowest, 27.9, at Eureka and Tascara. The maximum was 79, at St. Thomas on the 4th, and minimum, 10 below zero, at Wells, on the 15th. The greatest daily range was 68, at Carlin; greatest monthly range, 74, at Pascara.

PRECIPITATION.

The most important feature of the weather for the month, from an agricultural standpoint, was the continued deficiency in precipitation. There will doubtless be sufficient water for early crops, but the late crops of alfalfa are certain to suffer in many localities. Since November 1st the deficiency amounts to about 2 1/4 inches. In other words the State has had only about three-fifths of the average amount of moisture during the past five months. The average for March was 0.63 of an inch, or about half an inch less than the usual amount. The greatest monthly amount was 2.01, at Ely, and only a trace fell at several stations in the south section. The greatest in any twenty-four hours was 1 inch, at Pausa, on the 10th. Average number of days with .01 or more, 4.

THIS CARD IS GIVEN BY THE Physicians' Supplies and Chemical Company for the purpose of introducing their new remedies. It entitles the holder to a free examination and advice by their medical director, Daniel McSwegan, M. D., the ex-President of the California County Medical Society, who has returned from visiting the great hospitals of the world, and brings with him the medal of the International Medical Congress. His success in treating chronic and private diseases of both sexes is unquestioned. His new treatment for catarrh, lung, liver and kidney diseases is far in advance of the older methods, and rheumatic and nervous diseases are cured in from one to three visits. Piles, fistula and stricture can be cured at home without the use of the knife or caustic.

Dr. McSwegan is now in Reno by invitation, and will give free examinations until April 30th, to all who are in any way afflicted. Ladies will be told their diseases without any exposure. Men, weak from any private cause, restored to health and vigor. Oxytubercule will be used in appropriate cases. Parents who are interested in the question of sex should consult the doctor.
